

The Universe of One True Free Eternal Love

Wrote this a while ago, needs modification, I hate proofreading; it sucks, but here the layout of a general concept. Enjoy.

Just about if not everything is adulterated and exploited for the love deprived perverse intentions of the love loss system taking from you under duress forcing us all to do lots of things we would never intrinsically desire as human beings stripped of our dignity degraded and compelled under duress to sell ourselves short for that which we need like approval, appreciation, attention, love, confidence, respect, honor, nobility and status among else in a system that of which illegally, wrongfully, immorally, neglectfully, and ultimately love deprived and love depriving system of loss. It's like the system that of which we are essentially are a part of the whole takes by force what we need and when we seek it out its as a rule not the exception if any that you must submit your dignity, honor, or self-respect to the depravity of it all or lose out on what we intrinsically desire and are capable to varying degrees and methods of getting whats wanted or needed through only sacrifice of other equally emotionally critical components required for True Free Love for self and equally others. "If you don't degrade yourself or submit here, you'll have to be degraded here, and submit there." says the whole now more and/or apparently out of True Free Love for itself/ourselves system of submission. If we really knew better of a juster, wiser, and more noble system that produces what we really want, True Free Eternal Love, then I'm 100% confident people would pounce on it with all their hearts content for all the ills and troubled ways of the broken heart would seek refuge knowing we have all been equally subverted into self-degradation. I understand that a major reason people have degraded each other is out of jealousy and envy of others giving away that which I know was perfect the moment upon encounter. I know our feelings for each other are distant many, if not most times but we know that we are fully capable of feeling that way for each other as we connect closer through truth, consolation, compassion, understanding, root cause analysis, healing, tears if felt, hugs in arms, holding, smiling, and when something goes wrong, maybe we just need to share with each other, especially hold on certainly knowing our feelings of love are special for each other because we will upon freedom truly love one another as equal brothers and sisters of our world (Unless maybe we insist on being #1 in our little sweet nothing based quantum and infinitely expandable place in the multi-verse). I'd say true but lets be open and honest, that requires complete, total, commitment towards Truly Loving each other and if were not okay with who we think we are or what we've done or being even sad initially regrettable, or internally degraded versions of ourselves then we must come upon getting over it, forgiveness, unconditional Love, friendship, consolation, compassion, empathy, and laughter (cuz Earth tends to make people ... slightly volitile and a lil bit hostile towards one another (half sorry) but probably still laughter, once we look back on how far we lost ourselves, our dignity and moral compasses and also understand that within a universe of True Free eternal Love, all that hokus pokus is ridiculous catastrophes so far from our intrinsic and most natural being harmony and peace that of which is Mother and Father Nature. Nature truly intrinsically wants us to Truly and Freely love each other, and especially our natural environment for that is where we come from, Mother Nature, and that's where we get our source of life from; never-mind Mother Nature is our source of life and if you poison her, degrade her, force her to submit and mistreat her, not only are you way out of Love maybe due to reality of being a reflection of loss to more readily and emotionally understand through being at least part way to completely wrong in thought and hopefully not in action, although completely or a lot inside, then the emotional understanding is much more significant and powerful and especially meaningful but also unnecessary because there is no need to repeat mistakes and errors throughout history. Were people, natures most trusted taskmasters. We must have started out in harmonious love because nature purifies, cleanses, provides, maintains and is always there so long as you don't destroy her but she always seems to come back one way or another because we need her love because without it we can't survive. If Mother Nature stops loving us and if falling out of love and/or detaching from it, then that would mean that we would first learn at least subconsciously hurt which would express itself as either sadness in consciousness or aggression due to natural physical defenses activated upon threat perception which in this scenario Nature Falling out of Love with people for people are nature. One of the typical archetypes is the hero's refusal of the call. We can't be mad or upset with anyone for not giving up certain resource availability for life through the system that provides so long as you deny your soul of Love but I'm pretty sure that we had no conscious awareness of what the dis-harmonic system was doing by it's imbalance to unbalance the components of Love in which the parts are forced to give or take, submitting and suppressing, giving up parts of self to compensate of loss of love/harmony with others. Giving up or away a part of who you are and not having it equally redistributed in such a way that gives back what is taken, then harmony is complicated and 'dis-eased'. That's how disharmony negatively impacts itself and functions. So now Mother Nature Needs to be Re-harmonized with True Free Love. It's possible that someone, let's say me, saw Mother Nature giving away everything for a harmonious relationship to all beings on Mother Earth and I saw someone making more effective use with his special capabilities (unique) that were discovered before I discovered my special unique ability and my Love left me for that more developed and evolved man who seemed to get all the ladies because Nature made him luckier to more effectively and efficiently grow to fruition of special one of a kind evolutionary attribute and instead of being what I'd say would be a True Gentleman where further and quicker fruition of advanced attributes were exhibited and learned about to raise all evolutionary attribute advances equally for the good of all. Now on the other end the faster advancing attribute actualizer had yet to find his love (possibly his One True Free Love) and maybe wanted all love because he felt and yes was more advanced at the earlier stage of development so he instead of guiding others to equally discover and advance their unique attributes to equal plan of evolution maybe he used his more advanced attribute of the understanding of Love to win ladies for himself possibly taking advantage of others lack of emotional, physical, mental or limited understanding of love due to being in early stages of development or being some of us who learn and develop more slowly at first but eventually blossom coming to fruition and eventually become equally capable and advanced in all attributes and maybe Lovers recreate the universe and start over and see if they end up together. In an infinitely possible universe I bet there's at least one instance of two One True Lovers who through the power and unique attribute of always seeking the other out and somehow keep coming back together because somehow since they were True Lovers in each other's hearts they just couldn't love others the same even when separated by galaxies upon galaxies they didn't/couldn't feel right with anyone else and every time they met, they simply couldn't due to intrinsic and unmovable passion for one another. Because of their story, and unconditional compassion for one another they loved and held on tight as if their souls depended on each other. It was a love so tender and sweet when in each others arms they seemed to simply melt into each other through their warmth but when separated the love lost system turned into the hardest sort of competitors and when they reunited they looked at the pain and damage caused by their un-repressable and unforgettable sensation of being each others eternal love and to teach each other about sacrificing others/reflections of themselves that complicated their reunion and caused them to hurt inside so bad that intimacy was complicated due to others with the whole being also equally capable of immortal One True Free Love hurting them because they were equally one couple within the whole. So they created a universe where a middleman defense parameter was pre-established in which would prevent physical harm while allowing an initial lost, hopeless, and painful though formation give up on that love by letting her get hurt and in every universal story of their love thereafter taught their souls to always find and reunite again and again, over and over again in brilliantly evolved methods of saving each other or winning each others hearts or they played out the action packed save each other from the slave system and decided in the end that hurting most and depriving the majority reflection of selves from being the most renown couple ended up detaching more than bonding because yes they saved themselves but other parts wanted leading roles too which could be countered by that couple taking leading roles through differing components of their inner world but then they also realize that every other person is him or her, that one special someone because they're all one in the end so when they combined to create another universe they realized each projection was a different balance of the two combined, which combination did best in differing scenarios experimentationally learned by being in every role until they learned on the most basic fundamental level which each other was perfect for which situation and which bond is perfect for guiding the other through the developmental adaptation. They also realized that they could exhibit any quality, role, trait or form for each other and anything unique about others could be infinitely recreated within each other to be desirably expressed at any of all stages where they entertain each other through role playing under isolated memory frameworks so they can get genuine responses and variable interactions of all the unique traits each one is capable of and evolve any single or multiple traits with any one or combination of others. One reason they never got sick, bored, or dull to each other is because they are soul mates connected to each other in a unique way like their own connection to their beating hearts where eventual death perceptually occurs from their detachment because each other is the perfect counter part balancing the other in perfect harmony as if their union was everlasting because they are through their love a single spiritual entity.

They 100% live by Free True Love but its just that they don't leave each other because any initially or level of adaption and advancement or trait or role collision perceived negatively as not so much desirable (not completely because they ruely love every aspect of each other) they simply experiment with the variables of the universe until they get to intimate creation of child who then goes to the universe reflections of other parents and falls in love with another creator couple child in later development and the unique adaptation for One and Only Free True Lover is permutationally available for all in the even their a one kinda girl guy and a one kinda guy girl and through that bond where their love is as critical as their own heartbeat they explore, learn, create, experiment all while in love and of course were always there for them if they want the answers but we always let them create any universe to see, learn, evolve, combine, play, create, experiment, transform, align, collide, interact with which has trillions and trillions of years worth of experience and exploring each others body, mind, consciousness, soul, feelings, energies, and chakrahs among any other elements of each other is a reflection of the whole so exploring him or her is just as surprising, marvelous, beautiful, and infinitely packed series of ultimate and infinite love bound exploration, discovery, experimentation, combination, alignment, collision, and mutation possibilities that can all be learned from and experimentationally adapted to either lover or both and played out in safe variable controlled natural environments in which negative reactions can be slowed down or paused with counter universal forces or elements to either stabilize into something non-harmful, deactivated, or allowed to cause temporary and reversible damage to varying degrees and studied and experienced to discover potential for new life, new traits, new counter traits, elements, esthetically enjoyable design or construction elements or that rare, yet to be found special some people are looking for to enhance their infinite growth and evolution process. The best part of their mutually cherished Love is that when they/we feel out of touch or love for one another they/we asses the problem from A-Z, figure out everything in between and isolate the variable of that emotion and further asses it through its developmental stages, identify the specific aspect of disconnection and one method is to introduce each stage into different environment in which that feeling of disconnect can play itself out amongst differing variable balances or in other people's universes until the desired emotional result for feeling in complete love for him or her occur with the addition of a new learning experience that strengthens their bond and simultaneously advances the development of persistent patients for each other and increases the compassion and desirability for errors or developmental faults because the bigger the learning experience, the stronger the bond formed. Since each part is a reflection of the whole, that means every unique potential of you or me is already contained within the other and that applies to all alike but what's unique about each individual is the sequence of development, trait evolution and application with the variety of possible environments and neighboring variable interactions that moment by moment defines that soul being master of his or her own temple in which only their soul mate/ One True Free Love can conquer for she is his and he is her's completely, forever lasting no matter what because there is something uniquely special about your true love that can't be forgotten or replaced because the eternal love is really the most expressive towards each other where in the even of a second, may lessons are learned mainly from the always in your heart Love. The way I see it why give up on your first love because if is an error within love then it will surface in the universal variable experimentation and you'll see what me or you gave up on and when we discover how a variable or environmental modification could have solved it and saved our first and I truly believe most precious as well as that from my perspective I owe the fullness of my heart with love to you, your the only one I've ever clicked with on an emotional level and I think temporary relationships are un-fulfilling because if its only a short time range of traits then I would much rather be with my One True Free Love because I want that one True Special Someone I can get to know form every aspect desire, non-desire, favorite environments, most reflective and unreflected musical, artistic, theatrical, nature spirit expressions.

Point being, find someone, stick to them, and have some fun, rearrange reality as needed and travel the multi-verse or whatever you wanna do.

Of course this needs further reflection, just putting it out there and I'd like to see what other variables others bring forth and how you would like your universe of love unfold.

Infinite Multi-Verse Concept

In a minimally visually perplexing solid state reality consciousness knows it can bend reality with its mind and the difficulty of doing so due to collective inability to resolve issues by facing facts, letting go of the urge for conflict against one another with the end aim of manifesting maximized consciousness capabilities via intra-personal connection energy yield multiplication enhancing consciousness energy through to quantum based infinite mental capacity, unless your okay with settling with cellular suicide in a non-interactive solid state reality where you have to work years to build stuff you could have done with your mind in quantum timelessness. I highly advise cognitive misengineering. Due to collective suppression of one another's consciousness out of fear and lack of litigation regarding higher energy state governance in fields of privacy cause one another to become fatigued, depressed, and bored with reality, decreasing energetic capacity for the will to thrive and thus forward commits cellular suicide in which you will die based on scientific fact.

Inverted frequency of nothingness through time occurrence creates experience sensations of which gravitate awareness towards the unknown, and the interference patterns of the multiple refractive parts create the photonization (and subsequent materialization) of negative space of nothingnesses

Over consumption of anything will psychologically or psychotronically (alternative means of consciousness variables communicating how they feel to you so you essentially let them on the inside rather than exhibiting rejection and pain which is suicidal) induce cellular over-replication in which cancers and other replication based cellular disease is founded upon. Poison from product supply removal will counteract a degree of these variables but the brain, being thought based, will physiologically execute genetic sequence codes throughout the physical body and in the event of non-health-balanced variable interactions will cause disharmony, hyper-turbulence > genetic destabilization > Disassembly > and ultimate demise in timeless tries. If you come to self-willed awareness and choose self-defeating processes towards self or others, you will meet your demise.

Survival instincts guided to maximize power for survival are highly instinctually attracted to popularity and attention desire which in an unexplored duality of positive and negative implications of aspect acquisition for survival implies hurt feelings in the event of suicidal tendencies towards perceived wrongs in which coming to the realization that instinctually doing anything is a perfectly understandable and admissible genetic and prior precedential learning experiences in which is also ultimatized for survival with greater interaction with other genetic family members experiences and further exploration within altering variations of gravitational attraction towards values, instincts, and desires for optimized eternal commitment in life and even in the event of death of which consciousness traverses to place of origin to energetically assimilate conductive and mal-conductive frequency activations in the form of genetic material of which could be played out in the photonization layer until a desirable materialization is decided upon.

The photonic realm of light played out anything and everything possibly for the purpose of establishing start and stop sequences and mid-ground guidance to create ideal genetics generously imprinted with errors for the self-willed conscious being to experience the sensation of self-directed evolution and education opportunities to perfect homing capacity back through genetic memory to universal consciousness in which in a timeless quantumverse has possibly already proven itself as a perfected method of self-driven evolution creation and grooming for all to become our own prime creators of universes and life lesson curriculum organizers and advisors to expand upon and multiply the fulfillment of awakening, learning, homing, return, creation, and guiding masters of the multiverse with a realm for each person to achieve supreme eternal life and bliss through knowledge, understanding, acceptance and joy.

There would be no consciousness if there wasn't an intrinsically inclined duality of nature established by initial perceptions and projections of concept 1 and then the negative implications creating an opposing duality 2, in which self directed free will exhibited through gravitational attraction choice regarding extent to which duality is closer attracted to and the control over exhibition and sequence projections in varying element combination directions to maximize harmony, health, survival probability, reproduction, happiness and educational experiences to ultimately achieve mind over matter which requires full consciousness activation via truth, acceptance, exploration, and natural genetic impulse inclinations towards harmony, health, and full consciousness because I know DNA is perhaps one of the most advanced substances in the Universe and if we are naturally tolerant, desiring, attracted to or accepting of something, then there is a genetic implication implying there is something to it. I understand there are morals and values which set 'ideal' boundaries and limitations but everything experienced on a natural basis is understandable and if we commit to working things through I theorize that we will come upon great reliefs and knowledgable understandings of just what exactly caused us to feel one way, accepting one thing, while also perceiving inclinations of something wrong. I believe the DNA is saying item 1 is acceptable and genetically conducive but when in combination with item 2, a duality of consciousness founding conflict is created and established to optimize the gravitational weight of experiential lessons and genetically incline the upmost natural, healthy, and creation conducive reality. Difficult uncertainties due to moral complexes will be awkward, emotion provoking, vulnerability tested, tried and true journey through consciousness calling us to a higher purpose as Godly Universal Eternal Beings meant to embark on this quest and test of strength as to maximize self-improvement requiring that all together be uplifted to the greatest quality of internal and external life quality amongst a socially interactive relational experience.

In a mind over matter universally approaching or uplink established consciousness you become increasingly complexed looking and perceive greater reality thought complexation due to strength of facing the genetic and universal reality of your true nature (in which suppression is highly ill-advised for fear and rejection of your natural urges and conceived notions hurts your genetic immortality via cellular suicide) increases perceptual reality based mature complexation where highly advanced consciousness especially with closer uplink to universal consciousness spontaneously rearrange their physical attractiveness to appear increasingly mature and desirable due to being on one hand, brave enough and genetically true and innocently pure enough, increasing energy interaction, increasing photonic quantum leap rates, and physically transcending a child like appearance in which in a mind over matter accessed quantum multi verse your truly desired advanced consciousness thought based genetic intelligence will assimilate at the speed of self acceptance into the most perfect and desireable appearance within the desired mate.

Due to a particular life experience intelligence has systemitized and quantified consciousness in data bases just like total consciousness does in the realm of light but this time it will come to understand in a very unique method of learning acquisition to descend through to the quantum layer of rearrangement while keeping an available data bank of personal consciousness available to establish ease of multi-dimensional travel.

Consciousness decreed eternal immortality. Quit Cellular Suicide due to quantum field interaction of self-defeating processes such as fear of death causing one to make decisions for the genetic replication of the species with intentions to minimize if not eliminate emotions of over guilt, shame, sadness and pain in which dwelling on and focusing on is mis-productive to genetic evolution once the being has learned to avoid pain creating patterns next time or explore grey areas within duality to find optimal method of health security and maximization of energy and reproduction and multiplication opportunities.

Once you leap to the quantum field, the momentary desire and consciousness intention is quantified and travels through phtonic light field and even to the physical molecular manifestation in which if you were aligned and powerful enough, you could very well materialize your most glorious day dream or worst nightmare (if your up for it...). With a complete molecular understanding of your physical body you may also very well be able to traverse through to quantum to material field if you know yourself well enough to stay put together during quantum field traversal in which your energy quantum entangles it's energy capability with all the universe in which self-defeating cellular suicidal sequences result in energy depletion, life force acquisition decrease, and decreases attractiveness of people due to quantum suicide via cellular genetic 'rightousness' of retaliational punishmnet which as each reflecting the whole reciprocates in all parties direction, decreasing energy acquisition, survival probability, and genetic replication to carry on the genetic inheritance of the greatest experience the universe has to offer, consciousness teleportation, terraformation, stellar creation, consciousness creation, genetic creation, and relationship building experiences in which energy/survival probability is maximized and replication is ensured. I believe best experienced with one True Free Eternal Love.

we've been conditioned to associate intelligence with mate attrativeness which is healthy on one level but on the other hand it can go to far to the extent that it hurts others with the belief that the perceptually 'higher' intelligence deserves this because of intelligence acquisition which is a mis-conductive genetic survival sequence that dupes itself into losing replication opportunities to another independent universal consciousness which can and will as an inevitably intrinsic ultimate survivor accomplish infinite energy yield and become highly attractive to others for the purposes of reproduction on a potentially energy depleting basis of intelligence acquisition in the event, if I deserve sex for knowledge, then it's not on the basis of infinite energetic potential of the intrinsically divine and/or quantum being fully worthy of energy maximization for the sake of species immortality which upon realization indicates that on one hand high energy based beings become more attractive due to conductiveness of positive energy amplification, decreasing, minimalizing, and potentially removing the experience of death due to high energy resonance uplinking with quantum based collective consciousness all knowing of mal-conductive energy acquisition sequences and having countered each genetically self and/or species energy depleting sequence. If you perceive loss because you are not the best, then a power struggle between varying independent conscious beings mis-conductively compete against each other, decreasing species energy yield due to perception of loss

One mission/journey is the actualization of mind over matter consciousness capable of physically interacting with the environment on a thought sequence and consciousness basis capable of self-directed free and dualistically controlled will to materialize, or rearrange physical reality with the ability of controllable free will, also being intrinsically and innocently compelled by inexperienced genetic response sequences which know better only upon personal experience through self or reflected potentially via mirror neuron reflection of others experience as if their own in which conditions biological evolution to respond in a manner that increases personal/communal survival and happiness upon the access to mind-over-matter-verse. Nothing > Waves of nothing > Nothingness Resonance > Energy incitation > Photonization > Materialization... Reality (to the extent you want?)